

Bacterial Infections

Bacteria-guy

The defect in neutrophil adhesion results in poor chemotaxis and phagocytosis, causing individuals with this deficiency to suffer from recurrent bacterial infections that are often life-threatening.

Non-Pyogenic

Nun Pus-pie

It is important to note that the infections are non-pyogenic because neutrophils cannot migrate to the site of infection.

Delayed Separation of Umbilical Cord

Unseparated Umbilical-cords

Delayed umbilical cord separation beyond the normal range of 3-45 days can raise suspicion of Leukocyte adhesion deficiency because this is common in infants with LAD.
